

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A front surface side sensor is provided on a front surface of a bumper, and a reverse surface side sensor is provided on a reverse surface of 5 the bumper. Accurately discriminating a pedestrian from other objects is feasible based on the combination of binary output levels of two sensors in case of vehicle collision, or based on ON time difference or the ON time duration of two sensors.

10